

ENGLAND FEELS WAR WILL NOT BE OVER VERY SOON

Common People Beginning to Realize Gravity of Peril, Says Noted Japanese

"English people of the higher class are now beginning to realize that the European war is not going to be as easily won as they first thought, and that it may last a long time," So said Yoriada Tokugawa, son of Marquis Marlin, and nephew of Prince Tokugawa, this morning, in discussing affairs in England, where he has lived for the last three years.

The young and distinguished Japanese is on his way home, and declared that aristocrats of Great Britain are now much more concerned over the war and its outcome than they were a year ago. He stated that the majority of students of Cambridge University are now at the front. He lived in Cambridge for three years.

"The English are confident they will conquer the Germans," said Mr. Tokugawa, "but that will be a much longer and harder task than they anticipated." He said English newspapers are no longer allowed to print weather forecasts as German spies might forward them to Germany and more frequent Zeppelin raids would result if the Germans knew the weather was favorable for an attack.

S. Santo, accompanying Mr. Tokugawa, is returning to Japan after three years as a student at the University of London. He said Britishers have been much less cordial to Japanese residing in England since Japan captured and held Tsingtau, on which British has always had an envious eye.

Mr. Santo asserted that the common people of England are now stirred up over the war and continued bad news from the front. He said sentiments are much more frequent among the middle classes and lower classes, which until recently have been apathetic.

CHAMBER MAY MEET TO DISCUSS FORBES' PLANS ON WEDNESDAY

There may be a special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce next Wednesday, December 1, to consider the program for public improvements outlined by Superintendent of Public Works Charles H. Forbes in his request for appropriations to Congress.

R. C. Brown, secretary of the chamber, says he hopes that there will be a meeting, but that the reports of the reports will not be off the press until tomorrow, which means that they will be in many cases not reach members until Monday morning. This will make it a little soon for committee to bring in decisions on the reports. Mr. Brown is hoping, however, that the meeting may go through as planned.

Officers to serve the Heian Yacht and Boat Club will be selected at 7:30 o'clock next Monday night at the boat house.

General Clinton L. Riggs, of Baltimore, has resigned as a member of the Philippine Commission.

W. H. Page, U. S. ambassador to England, presented the American note protesting against British interference with neutral commerce, to the Foreign Office.

SCOUTS ALERT!

Scoutmasters, 1st Class, 2nd Class and Tenderfoot Scouts are expected to fall in next Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock sharp, in front of the main entrance of the Young Hotel building, whence they will march up to the U. S. Observatory platform, where for 30 minutes Prof. J. S. Donaghillo of the College of Hawaii will lecture on the six constellations required for the First Class Scout's degree: Orion, Dipper, Southern Cross, Cassiopeia, Bootes and the Scorpion. All that can be seen will be pointed out and the "markers" indicated.

After this Mr. Andrew M. Hamrick, meteorologist at the station, will explain the weather bureau machines, electric sunshine recorder, barometer, barograph, pycnometer, dry and wet bulbs, dewpoint, etc., with a short talk on the wind and rain conditions now prevailing.

Scoutmasters, assistants, first class scouts, and specially selected second class scouts will report at 1 o'clock sharp at the armory, N. G. H., Saturday afternoon, November 27, for further instruction in drilling.

HARRY S. HAYWARD, Deputy Commissioner.

BULLET FROM SOLDIER'S GUN KILLS SLEEPER

Accidental Discharge of Weapon of Guard Results in Death to Japanese

Torahachi Uratake, a Japanese carpenter's helper employed at Schofield Barracks, was found dying in his bunk yesterday morning, with a bullet in his head and an hour later it was ascertained that the wound was caused by the accidental discharge of a gun carried by Pvt. Endias Adams, Company K, 25th Infantry.

Adams was doing sentry duty and early yesterday when passing the corner of the quartermaster's storehouse went to shift his gun, and in doing so caught the bolt in the cloth strap of his left shoulder and in trying to release it pulled the trigger. The bullet went through the walls of a room back of the barber shop and struck Uratake in the head.

Uratake was sleeping in a room in the building just outside the military reservation, in which the barber shop and two sleeping rooms are located. H. Nakagawa was in the room with him and in the next room three other Japanese slept. One of the latter, Nakamura, went outside early in the morning and when he came back, about 3 o'clock, saw that Uratake was bleeding. He found the man wounded and summoned aid. Uratake was carried at once to the hospital and died shortly afterward.

The bullet entered the top of the man's head and was found lodged in the muscles under the chin. Captain of Detectives McDuffie and Detectives Kozuki and Kellett went to Schofield, on information that a murder had been committed, and were told by officers that the Japanese had been killed by one of his companions. McDuffie began an investigation and found a bullet hole in the side of the house, just above Uratake's head. It came in at an angle and by following up the apparent line the detectives were led to the corner of the warehouse. Adams was questioned and said that his gun had been accidentally discharged. The soldier had no idea that any damage had been done and was almost overcome by information that he had killed the Japanese.

Deputy Sheriff Plimmer of Wahiawa took the body of Uratake in charge and an inquest was begun this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Wahiawa. Uratake leaves a wife and two children.

TRAVELERS TO TACKLE 25TH AT LELEHUA

The Chinese Travelers will play the first game since their return from a successful tour of the mainland tomorrow afternoon at Lelehu. They are scheduled to meet the strong 25th Infantry team at 3 o'clock. The players have been practicing every day since their return, and will be in condition to meet the champion Schofield club.

Inasmuch as there are only seven of the Travelers ready to play tomorrow, the tourists have decided to secure two of the best players on the All-Chinese lineup. En Sue, the fast center fielder of the Chinese team, and Kan Yen, the peppery catcher, will be in the Travelers' uniforms. Kekoa may be in the box for the Travelers with Jasper and Rogan as the battery for the soldiers. This will be the first of a series of games scheduled between the two teams and the next game is certain to be staged in Honolulu. A number of baseball fans will accompany the Travelers to Schofield tomorrow.

FEDERAL PROBE OF DOPE RING IS NOT UNLIKELY

Although no action has yet been taken, it was reported on good authority today that the local federal authorities shortly will make an investigation of conditions leading to the arrest of Pvt. E. R. Jones of the Hospital Corps at Schofield Barracks, who now is in detention at the police station in connection with the recent theft of about $500 worth of cocaine, heroine and morphine from the hospital warehouse at Schofield.

"I cannot tell just yet what will be done," said District Attorney Jeff McCarroll today. "The police may hold the man for stealing, and the federal authorities may investigate regarding the narcotics."

Collector of Internal Revenue "Jim" Haley said that the matter undoubtedly will be left by his office to the district attorney.

GYPSIES TELL FORTUNES IN ANOTHER GUISE

an abbreviated shirt that comes just below his arms. He lies in Garita's lap and squirms around while his mother talks in broken English of life lines, money lines and the rest.

Fat Theresa has a child, also—a wee mite of a youngster that lies in a gypsy hammock in another room and breathes into his little lungs the foul air that arises from the black cigars smoked in a Japanese billiard parlor just behind the sanctum.

Picture of Harem Dancer. To add to the Oriental savor there hangs on the wall a gaily colored rug showing a Turkish harem girl dancing in the presence of other harem girls before a stern looking master, who holds a sickle shaped sword in his hand and draws in great clouds of smoke from a Turkish pipe. In one corner also is tacked a cheap advertisement for Turkish cigarettes.

Cheap calico curtains of varied colors hang about the walls, and were it not for the incessant clatter and click of billiard balls on the table back of the little room one could almost fancy Garita and Theresa were the really truly sort.

Garita wears her hair in two long black braids that come down from beneath a yellow cap cut in gypsy style. Theresa wears a cap of faded pink, much resembling the decorations of a rainy Fourth of July celebration.

When a representative of the Star-Bulletin stopped at the door of the little place on Hotel street to read the phrenology sign, he was beckoned in by Theresa, the old one. He bent low and crawled through a hole in one of the calico curtains, till in the dim light he made out Garita and the babe sitting on the floor within the room.

He was motioned to the kerosene box which served for a chair, and sat down. He stated that he wished his fortune told. Garita understood perfectly. She shifted the naked babe from his meal and took the newspaperman by the hand.

"Put 50 cents here," said Garita, pointing to the open palm. Evidently the lines were not clear and heeded silver polish. The request was granted, and a moment afterward Garita slipped the coin away within her clothing.

Sees Death at 95. Garita poses as a phrenologist, but the day in question was evidently her off day. So she began on the palm. She saw within it that the owner would live to be 95 years of age. That he would have good luck, that he had two trials in business, that he did not work for his money, that he would be a rich man within 10 years, and that he was free hearted.

This was the last thing that Theresa saw, this free-hearted part. The sight evidently made something go wrong for she stopped suddenly and, looking up into the face of the customer, said briefly, "One more 50 cents; I bring you luck."

Evidently the machine had stopped for good, for no amount of coaxing would bring forth from Garita the secrets that she keeps locked up inside her yellow cap. After several attempts to start the good luck story another 50 cents was added to that one which was lying in Garita's pocket.

Then she changed her tactics. She asked for the free hearted one's handkerchief this time, and holding up a corner of it told him to blow. He did so. He blew until his cheeks ached, and saying that he was tired Garita took turns with him. Evidently this was doing her best to get the luck started. Finally, in some mysterious manner, it came, and Garita turned on the broken English again. "Now," she said, "always you be lucky. Nobody make you harm."

Wants Lucky Chefs Numbers. When the newspaperman had again got back what breath he had expended, the asked quietly if Garita could pick lottery tickets and chefs winners, and the like? Garita did not understand, but said she would call old Theresa, and the fat one came.

Several lengthy jabberings in an unknown tongue and Theresa was ready with the information. "But," she said sadly, "You give 50 cents." Again a protest, and a detail of the easy money story that had just been delivered, but Theresa was positive. Garita rocked her babe back and forth meanwhile, smilingly, and hummed a lullaby. Finally the third 50-cent piece was produced, this time to Theresa.

Theresa looked long and seriously at the hand and chanted weird words that sounded like "eeny-meeny-miney-mo" put into Egyptian, perhaps, while from the outside came the rattle of dice and the click of billiard balls. Finally she looked up from her study and said sweetly, "You pick two numbers, 18 and 25."

She stated furthermore that the numbers should be picked before Christmas, the best day being December 18. "Now you buy kimonos for my baby," she said, pulling at the string that rocked the youngster. The free-hearted one fled, however.

Garita and Theresa have been at their present location about two weeks, and are said to have worked up quite a business. They have no license to carry on their trade. According to the territorial law palmistry and phrenology may be practiced here.

Said They Wouldn't Tell Fortunes. Fortune-telling is illegal here, according to the law, which puts it in the class of vagrancy, but the women who were on Hotel street are said not to come under the ordinance because palmistry and phrenology have been defined as "sciences."

Sheriff Rose said he knew nothing about the place on Hotel street, but that Attorney A. L. C. Atkinson came to him in behalf of some woman who

HAWAII TO JOIN MANY NATIONS IN TOAST TO PEACE

"A program is now being arranged for the closing day. The most striking part of the day's ceremonies will be an international toast, typifying the world peace, world service and world patriotism for which the exposition has stood sponsor during the past year of war and turmoil. This international sentiment is now being prepared by President Woodrow Wilson and will be announced at a later date.

The toast will be proposed on the exposition grounds at noon on December 4. All nations, organizations and institutions participating in the exposition will be asked to join in the sentiment at noon, December 4, San Francisco time, so that all peoples and particularly all nations may join with the exposition in a toast for a higher type of internationalism.

"May we not hope that you and those associated with you will join in the toast on our closing day? May I not also ask you at once to send me a brief sentiment that will symbolize your idea of what the Panama-Pacific international exposition has accomplished or will accomplish for human betterment and world progress? Any sentiment you may send will have an honored part in the ceremonies of the closing day."

"Permit me on behalf of the administration of the exposition to express our grateful appreciation for your patriotic interest and for your generous cooperation in our plans. Anticipating with pleasure your participation in the ceremonies of December 4, and awaiting your reply, I am,

"Very truly yours,
(Sgd.) CHAS. C. MOORE,
"President."

To this Governor Pinkham replied: "Executive Chamber,
"Honolulu, November 24, 1915.
"Honorable Chas. C. Moore,
"President, Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, Cal."

"My Dear Sir:—It will be with profound gratification that we of Hawaii join with you in the toast in behalf of international peace, as, at noon, December 4, all those who have had the privilege of participating in the marvels, sentiment and influence of the exposition on the higher arts of peace and good will toward men, combine in hearts as well as words with you and the great multitude of friends San Francisco and California have made.

"Thanking you sincerely,
(Sgd.) LUCIUS E. PINKHAM,
"Governor of Hawaii."

This followed the issuance of the invitation to the public as quoted above.

FRESH MEAT AND FISH FROM COAST

The Matson steamer Hilonian, which arrived from Seattle and San Francisco yesterday, began unloading early this morning. Among the first things to be taken from the refrigerator rooms were large consignments of fresh meat and fresh midland fish, the latter from the Puget Sound country. The meat and fish were consigned to C. C. Yee Hop & Company, King street—Ady.

wanted to open a place to practise phrenology and palmistry, and permission was granted to open the place as long as there was no fortune telling except through the "sciences" of palmistry and phrenology. Atkinson said that if he found out the woman was not complying strictly with the law he himself would inform the police.

Rose said that he knew nothing of the chefs numbers being given to callers at the woman's place.

"The interpretation of the law by City Attorney Brown is that palmistry and fortune telling are sciences," says Rose, "and this takes away from the police any authority to interfere. I suppose if they give lucky chefs numbers out and do it scientifically they have the right. I wish they would also tell us where the chefs gave are."

City Attorney Brown verified Rose's statement that it was not illegal to practise palmistry or phrenology here.

BOY SCOUTS WILL PUT ON LEADING CARNIVAL STUNT

"MRS. CLIFFORD KIMBALL of Haleiwa—The best show I ever saw. Absolutely inspiring. I am all in favor of making every boy in Hawaii a Boy Scout."

"REAR-ADMIRAL CHARLES B. T. MOORE—This show was worth more than $1. Enclosed please find— I'm not going to tell you how much it was."

"JOSEPH P. COOKE—Here's $5 a month forever."

"GEORGE R. CARTER—This beats me. I hereby pledge $10 a month to your budget."

"There were lots of others, but that's enough to show the way they ran. We don't expect to recruit every boy in Hawaii, as Mrs. Kimball would like to see, but we do want that $28. Our organization will not permit us to take in more."

"Shortly, I expect to tour the islands on a recruiting mission. If I have the success I look for, we shall bring down 100 boys from Hawaii, Maui and Kauai for the Carnival encampment."

"The boys will hike into the hills and cut all their own timber for scaffolding, and the organization will victual them while they are here, for a cost of 25 cents a day, a boy."

"They will march in the military parade on Washington's birthday, if a place can be made for them, and they will do police work, for training in handling crowds, and act as ushers wherever they can be of service."

Capt. Norris Stanyon, U. S. A., one of the Carnival directors, was asked if he had seen the exhibition last year. "No, I didn't," he said ruefully, "but my small boy did and he has been pestering me to let him join the Boy Scouts ever since. That's the kind of impression it made on him, and the fact that he is still under the age limit doesn't seem to square me with him a bit. When you get older is the hardest thing a boy has to hear."
